Three day camp conducted at Thalavechapara hamlet as Part of the UBA Programme

Education is considered as a key element for the development of a society. Education process starts from the family and community. One's lifestyle and thoughts are really shaped through the influence of beliefs, customs and practices in their surroundings and all these influence each people's life style and thoughts. Hence the environment and culture of a person plays an important part in his/her development. Muthuvan is a community which firmly holds their traditional rituals, beliefs and culture and so on. As modernity influenceseach community tribal communities are also becoming victims of the same. As a result the life style,culture etc arechanging day by day. Bharata Mata College has conducted several interviews and group discussions with tribal communities and the authorities of the tribal development department at Muvattupuzha in order to tackle the above said issues based on the influences of modernity. Based on these interactions, there have been clear indications that education support programs need the capacity to build on the strengths of the tribal community, to value their culture and history, and at the same time, establish programmes which enable, more or less seamless, integration into main stream education systems. As per the guidance given from the tribal department, Bharata Mata college has visited Thera,Panthapra,Uriyam petti,andThalavechapara hamlet tostudy and understand the reason behind the increase in school drop outs.

UDAYAM 2019

The Barata Mata College and the School of Social Work has organized in association with the Unnath Bharat Abhiyan (UBA), Bharata Mata Extension for the Organic and Research Environment (BeFORE), and the Vana Samrakshans Samiti (VSS), to conduct a Rural camp at the tribal settlement in Kuttampuza Gramma Punchayath in the 11th ward, Elamplassrery at Mamalakandam on the 22nd to 28 of January 2019. The programme was guided by the efficient support of the principal of the institution Dr. Shiny palatty, in assistance with the Head of the department Dr. Sheena Rajan Philip and the faculties with special reference to the timely and due promptings and the facilitations of the camp director Prof. Tony M.Tom and the student coordinators Mr. Anandhu Venugopal and Ms. Keerthana Shibu.

The camp has derived its original praxis from theGandhian ideology saying; the heart of the nation lies in the villages… the name Udayam refers to the new beginning, resurrection of the old self to a new, a holistic novel approach and view to the existing potentialities, pulling out he potential and capabilities form the beneficiaries of the camp thus ma king them self-dependent and sustainable with respect to the development and the ecological endowments. The 1st year MSW trainees have made a big achievement commendable and appreciative to the whole department and the institution in spite of cramming brain and mind due to university exams to make these days with the marginalized, profitable as well as academically beneficial resulted trough the complete exposure to the nature and lives in collaboration with the ecology. The business of the urban life would cease for a week boosted out of sheer Charity alone.

The trainees have planned for a month under the leadership of the student coordinators dividing the entire class into diverse groups and thus scheduling the all-inclusive programmes for a successful and beneficial consequence. The rural camp would be ever memorable in the minds of the legatees as well as in the organizers and accomplices thus it would encompass as well as transcend the etiological and metaphorical meaning of the name and the identity of the Camp

INTERVENTIONS AT BORSTAL SCHOOL, KAKKANAD

As part of our commitments towards nation's development, development interventions have been planned among youth offenders at Borstal School, Kakkanad. The intervention is aimed at the psycho-social development of this youth group. Borstal School Kakkanad is the rehabilitation cum correction home of youth offenders who belong to the age group 18-21 years who are indulged in civil and criminal activities and have been convicted by law.

They need psychological support and development in the process of being corrected. Considering the social factors which contributed to the crimes they have committed, an urgent need is felt to support them with psycho-social development programmes. Interventions are planned and conducted weekly twice at Borstal School, Kakkanad.

STUDENTS' SHG

Social Work education believes in imparting teaching and practice hand in hand in the process of moulding social work trainees into professionals. BeFORE – Bharata Mata Extension for Organic Research and Environment acts as a live lab for the students of social work in getting hands on experience in various settings of professional social work. As an innovative venture, this academic year onwards, we have initiated SHG among the students in the class. As community Organisation remains the primary method of social work and as students of 1st semester are placed in the communities as part of their concurrent field practicum, working with SHGs in the communities is mandatory. To facilitate a live understanding of the concept, student SHG is initiated in the class and they are involved right from the beginning – formation and ongoing functioning. This will help students to visualize and experience the administrative structure, generic and specific functioning of SHGs in the communities. As they go through the process, they understand and experience the dynamics of the groups and this will help them deal with the community SHGs in an effective manner. This will also help students to anticipate issues in the administration and help themselves competent in the community problem solving process. Initiation of SHG in the class will enhance their knowledge and understanding of the concept, the philosophy behind it and suggest modifications in the process (if any), in case of facilitating effective and efficient working of community SHGs. This live lab will further assist in their professional development in their consecutive semesters when they learn Administration of Human Service Organisations and Human Resource Management for Development Practice.

CENTRE FOR LIFE LONG LEARNING

The Centre for Life Long Learning is initiated with the objective of devising and implementing need based certified training programmes for different target groups. This will be implemented by disseminating the existing faculty expertise to various segments/target groups of the society. The objective of the center is to facilitate various personal and professional development programmes under one umbrella. A group of well experienced trainers with expertise in human resource management, interpersonal relations, emotional intelligence, social capital management, social psychology and social dynamics train different target groups of society and also professionals from different backgrounds. The centre has initiated a programme called Introduction to Social Work (ISW) for the coastal community at Chellanam.

INNOVATIVE TEACHING-LEARNING METHODS

The teaching learning pedagogy at Bharata Mata School of Social work includes a combination of novel methods, content and technologies to provide an innovative Social work education experience for students. The methodology followed aims to develop professional aptitude, subject clarity, interpersonal skills, communication skills, reflective and critical thinking, data collection and management skills, conflict resolution skills, skills for working in organizations, and skills in negotiation among students.

The pedagogy used is student centric and participatory, in which students participate in both learning and teaching activity. The classroom teaching learning has limitations in understanding the practice competencies. The activity oriented and participatory method creates an inclusive platform for students from diverse background to develop skills, aptitude, techniques and professional values.

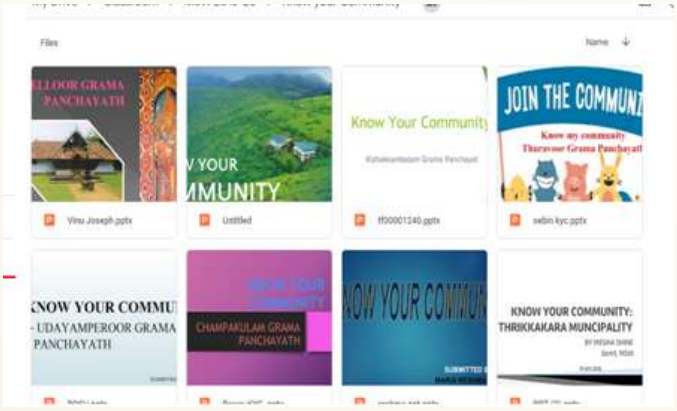
Integrated teaching-research-practice

Higher education always insists on integrating teaching practice and research as part of classroom learning. Students engage in field action projects which help to gain research skills like data collection, analysis and writing inferences and findings. This helps them in understanding the community better. This in turn is discussed in classroom. For instance, the topic of theories of family intervention was learned in classroom and students observed while their field work in Pushpanagar colony. They did carry out interventions with the girls in the community and organised activities. This in turn was taken as topic of research dissertation. Both students and teachers go through the process of integration, where the subject is been learned.

ICT, enabled teaching learning practice

Information, Communication and Technology is been used to enhance, support and optimize delivery of information. This provides better learning experience for students. Google classroom is a online platform used by teachers and sharing academic and non academic activities.



MOOC - Courses by Students

MOOCs are courses delivered online and accessible to all for free. SWAYAM, Coursera and Edx websites are used by students for doing MOOC. The MOOC courses taken by students are considered as internal assignment.

Virtual classroom provides a platform for disseminating assignments and seminar presentations in a paperless way. This provides students an experience to engage in teaching and learning process.

Student centric evaluation

Viva Voce is conducted in every semester as part of the internal assessment where students are assessed by teachers as well as self evaluation. It provides opportunity to students to introspect about their contributions, trengths and achievements.

Know your Neighbourhood

Know Your Neighborhood program is a pre-academic self learning exposure where the students are guided to learn from their own neighborhood- the various problems, needs, resources, socio cultural realities, community based organizations, civil society organization, government and non government initiatives that promotes welfare and development. This self learning will sensitize the students and facilitatefurther learning during the course.

Article Review

Faculty review articles and do presentation during the staff meeting every month. This creates a platform for dissemination and discussion on emerging trends in social work discipline. This helps in sharing the theoretical knowledge and novel practices from the local and global scenario

Best practices are those which add value to human life and support main cause of an institution. It helps in the development of an institution-a source or means to perform social responsibility. It can change the life of whole institution as well as individual stake holders. Colleges undertake different types of best practices as per their institutional environment; try to bring about innovations and new ideas. Best practices are those activities which are aligned to the vision and mission of the institution and those that can be projected as replicable in the respective fields. Bharata Mata School of Social Work has been following certain best practices to promote innovations and commitments towards professional social work. These best practices boost up the morale of the stake holders which in turn create a positive and constructive environment in the organization in our process of contributing back to the society. The following are the best practices evolved over the time from inception. We are always in the process of developing the discipline by promoting teaching-practice-research nexus with an ultimate goal to develop the profession.
